

For Tyco Electronics Processing Equipment

As a worldwide leading manufacturer and supplier of wire & board processing equipment, Tyco Electronics offers you not only excellent processing equipment, but also intelligent financing.

Benefit from these advantages:

- Increase in liquidity
- Protection against obsolescence of equipment
- Utilisation without tying up capital
- Tax advantages
- Flexible contract structure

Leasing or lease-purchase protects the capital you have invested for innovations. Your equity capital, your credit lines and your bank securities are undiminished and available to you for the creative running of your business and to ensure that you have the advantage over the competition.

The recurring lease payments which remain unchanged over the whole term of the agreement are fully tax deductible as business expenses, comprise a stable accounting figure and easily pay for themselves due to continuous use of the equipment.

You can use what would have been interest payments on advance financing of thousands of machine hours for more appropriate expenditure.

Also when production change-overs occur redundant manufacturing equipment will not be taking up valuable space in your premises.

Leasing or lease-purchase are smart alternatives to a standard purchase. Come to us for a consultation!

Only by comparing all the relevant subsequent costs such as cash flow, equity costs, corporation taxes, depreciation, interest rates, administration costs and the like you will be able to decide in each individual case which strategy is best for you.
